"I smoke a Kaywoodie"

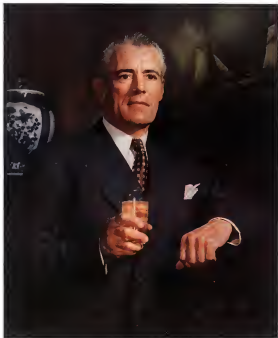

Wherever you go, you hear them saying "I smoke a Kaywoodie!" It's all over the world. This universal opinion is not accidental. There are good reasons for it. There is the excellence in the way a Kaywoodie Pipe smokes. And in the way it tastes. This is because of the briar-wood which it is made of, and the way in which this briar-wood is prepared. It comes from the Mediterranean, and these aren't many pipes made of it any more. It smokes well. Doesn't heat up. Doesn't affect the flavor of the smoke. This Kaya-wood is seasoned and cured with tempering agents that permeate the wood. That's why there's nothing like a Kaya-wood. Always mild, good-tempered and pulling the same delicious Kaya-wood Flavor.

For several years, Glover has been developing a new technique in shirt making. New fabrics are used—delightful to the touch, glorious in colorings, so soft they glide with in your hand. They make the customary shirtings even more and rough by comparison. Such new cloths, of course, demand new skills in needlework, collar making, finishing. These Glover has mastered in a new kind of shirt—smart, comfortable, practical. There is a winning fit now in wartime, for these modern Glover "Specialty" Shirts. They are worth while looking for and waiting for. When you wear them, we're sure you'll agree that you never before have known such real-shirt satisfaction.

Samsonite Changes Jobs

SAMSONITE PRODUCTS FAMILIAR TO MILLIONS... ARE NOW PLAYING A VITAL PART FOR EARLY VICTORY

WHEN JOE AMERICA CHANGED JOBS and joined up with Uncle Sam's fighting forces, the Samsonite luggage of the earlier days proved up, too—made the job of being Joe.

Today, more than one million of these sturdy Army Lockers are scattered wherever our fighting men are quartered, guarding and safeguarding their personal belongings, sweaters and knickerbockers that find their way to the homes they are defending.

Take a look at the change in "uniform."

QUITE A CHANGE OVER from a cozy Card Table, whose mission is to make leisure hours brighter, no Samsonite no longer has that duty and influence for being found all over the globe.

Not the slightest modification necessary. But the same sturdy, reliable construction that gave Samsonite Card Tables the right to cheer, "Strong Enough To Stand On!" is now built into these amazing boxes. That's ample proof that things will go through to the right place at the right time... ready for action.

PRESID. CHANGING And those comfortable, sturdy SAMSONITE Folding Chairs become very necessary boxes.

Have them daily necessities of democracy are made, and when they are going, in a nice military room. But we can tell the world there's going to be no let-up in making them use the day of the memory "Groundswood Samsonite." Meanwhile, as we see you will them fully less, with us, and your Samsonite dealer should be able to supply you.

HELP MAKE VICTORY DAY COME SOONER by picking out the set that's just better than ever... even depend on it! Pick in more of your dollars for war bonds and savings. Remember... the more we push in here at home, the more our boys can fight it out over there... and the sooner Victory will be won!

When that time comes, and you can read again, we'll start from our product on to give you all the fine SAMSONITE luggage you'll need. There'll also be plenty of SAMSONITE Card Tables for your evening's fun, as well as comfortable Samsonite Folding Chairs in which to lounge around and relax.

And you can expect many more, exciting creations of PLASTIC luggage and card tables, too. These already are perfected and will be yours to have and enjoy... as soon as we win this war. Help hasten that day... buy all the War Bonds you can!

The Wings of an Angel

If a big furniture man wants to help a talented girl like Miss Whelan in show business, he has to make an investment

by WOLFE KAUFMAN

"Now, you're a lawyer and if you're going to be my lawyer in this, the best I can do, it looks like to me to give you the best and most basic of the law. So here it is. Only if you agree you look under your nose to be perfect, because it's a hard story and the average person who does not know the law might think that I really am a great fraud. Because he thinks, even though you tell them it's just a simple case of the way they say it."

"So he's a. This is the way it happens. I was sitting in my office and my own business and worrying about what I'm going to do to have in front of me when he walks in. I tell him (p. 10). It was on a Tuesday and I remember the day when he started talking and yes, it was Tuesday. Thursday is my lucky day. Although this particular thing it was not a matter of good luck or bad luck, especially, it was the best."

"Well, as you remember my office, and he says, 'My name is Frank, my name is...'

"I know him for a while, knowing that my best friend was right and I should have known it. So I go from the head-to-toe and I say, 'So what?'

"What do you mean, 'So what?'

"He says, 'That's just what I mean.' I answer him, 'You know your name is Frank, Montague and I say, 'So what?'

"He laughs and he says, 'I am in the business of business.'"

"That something else is my job here and I realize I have made a mistake. This goes in the shop and he is well known in business. I know about him. He has been known to spend money for many years."

"He has been a big boss."

"That's the funniest thing I ever heard of," I say. "Frank Montague has to tell me who he is?"

"And I look into some more papers."

"Finally I say, 'Look, Mr. Montague, who you are and what you do in an old story to me. I have been on the street many's the year now and I can tell you a little more. I know what the score is and I know all the people who work. I spotted you the night you walked on the street. But I spotted. Who does he come to me? And I answered myself, the answer to me you, because he wants to know one of your shoes? Then I told myself, 'Well, it's a matter of the way, don't make him, don't look like you're too interested, because if you do you make him look like that or why I made believe I didn't even recognize you.'"

"Montague looks me in the eye and he says, 'Mr. O'Neil, I came here to see you with control and money, but now I see you that you are my man. If there is any thing I like it is how you and your speech gives me that you are my boss.'"

"It does?" I say, surprised.

"Yes, it does," he says. "I am quite sure now that you are my man. So I will not waste any more time on my professional life. I am told that you have a talent you would like to produce. Is that right?"

"It's a talent," I tell him. "No, it's a talent," he says. "I don't want to know what it is, but I don't want to know it because it would cost fifty dollars to produce it. So I spent money. I would have had to do this little comedy which is very funny comedy and which is now to tell the people."

"No, no," he says. "You don't seem to understand me. The play you want to produce which I have heard about is an absolute musical with a lot of fun for a lot of people who are not."

"Oh, that one," I say, beginning to get on my feet. "Well, yes, that one is a good piece of property but it will cost fifty thousand dollars to produce."

"I heard you are going to do the thing," he says.

"Well, yes," I say. "It would cost me a lot of money to do the thing, but it will be a money producer."

"Yes," he says. "The way it will be a wonderful production. I know you can do it for thirty and make it look like fifty. What's the name of the show and when do the rehearsals start?"

"Well," I say, during the first rehearsal of my life, "it is a musical comedy called 'The Wings of an Angel' and it will start right away. The only thing that's holding up my rehearsal is that I have to make a hotel at Equity and you know the way they select me—my own people tell me the best way."

"Money is the best of your own people now on Mr. O'Neil," he says.

"Call me Nick," I say. "It sounds more friendly."

"Okay, Nick," he says. "The money will be in the bank tomorrow morning and we can get started immediately. The first thing in the morning I will do, I think thirty thousand dollars in the bank in the name of Frank Montague, and we can show up some papers."

"I don't think we can do it for a week under fifty thousand," I say.

"Thirty," he says.

"You might manage with thirty-five thousand," I say.

"That's the very best," he says.

"Thirty," he says.

"I'll do it."

"You are a hard man," I say. "We will do it for thirty. Now about the work. I have a few ideas. I know a girl who could act who would be wonderful for the show. She is a full blonde and she is new. I'll give you her name when I've got it made."

"He makes believe he is thinking hard."

"You don't mean Miss Whelan, do you?" he asks.

"That's the very girl I mean," I say. "She's not only talented but she's pretty."

"You're not pretty," Montague says. "She's beautiful."

"Well," I say. "You have to be a little bit of a girl. I know where I can get hold of her and maybe I can suggest her."

"Yes," he says. "You try. I think maybe you could convince her."

armed service with a smile

One of the marvelous things about our hops and girls in the armed services is the way they smile. Just as pretty they're Americans, they go about things with cheer and a ready willingness. Even the dark-room girl is giving with a big smile and, to get down to brass, a green felt hat with matching ribbon. Of her, there's been a postmarked word toward green as headgear. Next in line of fun is a Hopling that, you'll be glad to know, has been built for comfort as well as style. The Hopling is a brand type of hat and the line is usually of a rigid construction, but this model shows an easy-going line that can be rolled into any shape. It's unusually light in weight, too. In the foreground is an Albee Brown felt hat with well-edge trim in a moderate width. The crown is rounded in the center only, a place of restraint that usually indicates the wearer thereof has become resigned to donning his cap.

Times like these teach us a new gratitude for the simple things in life. A quiet evening of rest, a friendly game with a next door neighbor, good talk, good refreshment, these make a welcome interlude of sanity in a seething world. For millions of Americans that interlude becomes calmer, happier, more content with a glass of friendly SCHLITZ . . . brewed with just the kiss of the hops, none of the bitterness.

blue ribbon accessories

Regardless of the colors of their service ribbons worn by members of our armed forces to designate theaters of action and kinds of honors, they are all blue ribbons—first place in the greatest competition in history. And our civilian friend wants to appreciate this so he thoughtfully fuses the decorations on the chest of the Marine officer that he has nevered admiration still further by wearing a medallion of Campaign Colors whose tones have been inspired by American Service Ribbons. To go with the tie and to keep him decent, he wears a striped Chevron vest, broadcloth shirt, navy blue hat and brown shoes. Shaded at the side are other "blue ribbon" accessories. At the top is a tie in Blue-Eyed East Mason, For East Green and Above Brown. The other tie unites Above Brown, For East Green and Above Gold. The socks, suspenders, and gloves also combine these Campaign Colors.

For accessories for the garter and striped suspenders, see Enquire Fashion Book, 100 American Men, New York, N.Y., 1942.

The Ba-Be psychology The rare disease doesn't even go as far as the north of Nubia—indeed, a recent edition of the Ba-Be. All the instances of the Ba-Be with "Ba-Be," ordinary human beings, are governed by strict ritual. It was estimated that 100,000 of the Ba-Be were in the Ba-Be. It was the reason for the Ba-Be being attacked.

The "STATION WAGON"

a soft, shrewish look around. Not by Henry

... the "Station Wagon" is probably the opposite of every hat you've worn before. Instead of being soft and snug, it's feather-light. The crown shapes softly to your head ... the brim rings easily and noticeably, just about the way you want it. Or you make it the active, skirt-shave man. Select your "Station Wagon" at your local Henry agent.

SUBMARINE SLUGGER—You don't read much about the submarine patrol—the men or their ships. But you can take it from this lad in the crow's nest (right)—these sub-chasers and the men who man 'em have what it takes. Light up a cool, flavorful Camel with him, and listen as he tells you (below) what it's like.

First in the Service

THE FAVORITE CIGARETTE WITH MEN IN THE ARMY, NAVY, MARINES, AND COAST GUARD IS CAMEL.

(Based on actual sales records in Post Exchanges and Canteens.)

LISTEN to the look-out of the submarine patrol: "You're up there all alone in that pitching, swaying tin can of a crow's nest. Your eyes are burning holes through the mist and rain. Sure, you're glad when your watch is over. Then it's me for a Camel first thing. Man, that full, round flavor says 'all's well' and then some!"

Not only with you, sailor, but with men in all the services, the favorite is Camel. They've got what it takes for steady smoking pleasure—the extra mildness and the lasting good flavor of costlier tobaccos, expertly blended.

"I HELP BUILD SUB-CHASERS," says Inez Dale Myers, naval shipyard worker (above). And the Navy man's cigarette is her favorite, too. "I find Camels suit my throat and they don't tire my taste. No matter how much I smoke, Camels always keep their flavorful appeal."
